THE CUSHING RADIO STATION

Third To Be Erected By Mackays On Atlantic Coast and Sixth Large Station In Important System

In an interview with The Courier-Gazette yesterday George W. Hanson, construction engineer of the Mackay Radio & Telegraph Co., Inc., made public the first definite information concerning the big ship-to-shore radio station which that corporation is to build at once in the town of Cushing. Several issues ago the readers of this paper were told how the corporation had bought the 117-acre farm owned by Mrs. Hattie Burton, after making a careful study of the Knox County coast to see where the most favorable opportunity presented itself. On the property stands a large two-story farmhouse, and this is already being put in readiness for the radio equipment of the proposed commercial station.

"The station will have a low frequency and intermittent frequency," explained Mr. Hanson, "and will operate on 600 and 2100 meters, respectively, each put in double set. The aerial will be 1000 feet long stretched between two structural steel towers each 225 feet in height. The land elevation at this point is about 80 feet above sea level. The site was selected because of its natural advantages, and because of its proximity to the system of the Central Maine Power Company which will provide the station with an electric power of 220 volts. The site also brings us into close touch with our sister station, the Postal telegraph office in Rockland.

"The initial cost of the plant will be about $100,000, based on a single unit. Other units will be added from time to time as the business increases. We figure upon being 'on the air' in six weeks, although this does not mean that the station will be completed by that time. Steel for the towers was shipped yesterday. The transmitter sets are manufactured at our own factory in Palo Alto, Calif. While the construction work is in progress we shall employ four or five electricians, 10 men on the steel work and about 20 other laborers."

From which it will be seen that the quiet Cushing community will soon be a scene of great activity, as well as the location of one of the six big stations erected by the Mackay company—three on the West Coast and three on the Atlantic Coast. The first station constructed on this coast was at Sayville, Long Island, which takes care of the business in the Middle Atlantic, as well as being a port-to-port station.

The second station to be erected on this coast was at Jupiter, Fla., and Mr. Hanson was also the construction engineer there.

The Cushing station's activities will be confined wholly to the shore-to-ship and ship-to-shore business in the North Atlantic, messages being relayed by the Postal office in Rockland.

Under the Mackay system of six large coast stations no section of the universe is out of touch with its operators.

The Cushing station at the start will have a staff consisting of a chief operator and three assistants.

Mr. Hanson, who is a Californian, and deuced proud of it, had a hand in the construction of the first Marconi station in this country, and has been with the Mackay company since 1921. He is credited with being one of the oldest radio construction engineers in the two hemispheres. His assistant here is George Harvey from the New York office.

Mr. Hanson was much interested when he learned from Judge Frank B. Miller that the Burton farm had so much historical significance. The site of the famous old block house will be appropriately marked, and a fence will be built around that ancient tree, where so many generations of Cushing children have played.

WHITE FOR SENATOR
Thomaston Organizes a Very Strong Club Favoring His Nomination

In his fight for the United States Senatorial nomination Congressman White finds staunch support throughout Knox County, one of the most enthusiastic towns being Thomaston, where a White-for-Senator Club is being organized. An enrollment of 300 has already been attained, and new signatures are being obtained every day. The eagerness and willingness with which the voters are signing up is an expression of Thomastonian loyalty to Mr. White and a belief that the man who has served the country with distinction in the House should be promoted.

The preamble to the White-for-Senator Club lists reads thus: "We, the undersigned members of the White-for-Senator Club of Thomaston, Maine, do hereby endorse and promise to support Wallace H. White, Jr., for United States Senator, in the coming primary election of June 16, 1930, in recognition of his faithful and efficient services rendered to State and Nation."

"MONTPELIER" NEARS COMPLETION

Beautiful Memorial Structure At Thomaston To Receive Its Dedication On July 25

The imposing white walls of "Montpelier," the structure reared on the heights at Thomaston as a memorial to that prominent figure of the Revolution, Gen. Henry Knox, have been observed with growing attention by the public. As the day for dedication draws near the interest deepens with the conviction that Thomaston is to become the home of this structure a place of widely recognized importance.

While the completion of the work under the hand of architects and contractors has not yet been reached, it is confidently expected that these details will be finished in proper season, and that to them will be added such further details of furnishings, and decoration of the grounds, as will present to the public in connection with the exercises of July 25—the anniversary of Knox's birthday—satisfactory suggestions as to what the memorial will ultimately become.

By this is meant such reproduction of the interior of the palatial structure as shall present to the visiting world a picture of the Knox home as it was lived in during the period of its magnificence. Already many pieces of the original furniture have been supplied by gift and loan. Still others are looked for.

In this connection it is earnestly desired that any person having in possession a Knox souvenir of any sort shall bring it to the attention of the house furnishing committee, with view to having it included in the decoration of the house.

Responsibility for the completion of these details has been laid upon committees who are already busily engaged, moved by a purpose to bring to the highest point of success this enterprise which, so long under consideration, has within a year been made possible through the interest and liberality of Cyrus H. K. Curtis. The personnel of these committees is thus made up:

General committee, building and grounds—J. C. Perry (chairman), Mrs. Blaine S. Viles, Mrs. R. O. Elliot, Mrs. W. O. Fuller, Arthur J. Elliot.

On grounds—Miss Margaret G. Ruggles (chairman), Miss Rita Smith, Mrs. Lois M. Creighton, Miss Hortense Wilson.

Elliot, Mrs. Josephine Walker, Mrs. Helen Smith, Mrs. Levi Gilchrist, Mrs. Martha Cobb Wood, Mrs. Rose Welt Davis, Miss Elizabeth Washburn, Mrs. John O. Stevens, Mrs. Lawrence Dunn, Mrs. George M. Derry, Mrs. A. T. Gould.

Building—Harry C. Moody (chairman), Arthur J. Elliot (acting chairman), Jarvis C. Perry, Zelma M. Dwinall, Mrs. Lois M. Creighton.

Program for July 25—Jarvis C. Perry (chairman), Arthur J. Elliot, W. O. Fuller, E. K. Gould, Homer E. Robinson, Ray E. Thurston, Zelma M. Dwinall, Katharine C. Derry, Lois M. Creighton.

NURSES GRADUATE

Diplomas Awarded To An Octet At Conclusion of Three-Year Course

The beautiful assembly room of the William Bok Home for Nurses was the scene of an interesting activity Wednesday evening, the commencement exercises of the school of nursing of the Knox County General Hospital, conducted under the auspices of the board of directors. A profusion of white and purple lilacs was used as decorations, the grouping of the nurses against a solid bank of these blooms being very effective. The student nurses, headed by the graduates, entered in procession to the music of a march.

As a preface to the formal program, Mrs. Helen Wentworth, soprano, sang delightfully "Welcome, Sweet Wind" (Cadenza); "The Shadow March" (a setting of Robert Louis Stevenson's poem by del Riego) and "No Limit" (Bainbridge Crist). Mrs. Wentworth was accompanied at the piano by Mrs. A. R. Marsh.

On the platform in addition to the graduates were seated H. P. Blodgett, president; W. O. Fuller, of the board of directors, who presided; Miss Anna Coughlin, speaker; Miss Ellen C. Daly, superintendent of the hospital; Miss Jean MacKenzie, assistant superintendent; and Mrs. Nettie Bradley Lord, superintendent of nurses. Several of the directors were in attendance, and others in the audience were members of the hospital staff, doctors, student nurses, and special guests.

The invocation, pronounced by Rev. George H. Welch, pastor of the Church of Immanuel, was followed by Miss Coughlin's address, which on the subject "The Master Workman" proved one of the most masterly to the credit of this talented educator. With service stressed as the keynote, Miss Coughlin covered various phases such as selflessness, generosity and character building. Many of the points were presented in the speaker's original manner, illustrated by apt and apt poems.

Mr. Fuller presented the three-year course diplomas. In a brief address he paid high tribute to the efficient work of Mr. Blodgett, the president, and introduced Miss Daly, the new superintendent, who taken quite by surprise nevertheless responded in a brief but earnest address which the audience acknowledged with a warm burst of applause.

An informal reception, refreshments and dancing, with Marsh's Orchestra furnishing music were closing features of the exercises.

The nurses receiving diplomas are: Etta Petrie of North Sullivan; Helen Gregory, Rockland; Arlene Kossuth, Vinalhaven; Lucinda Young, Vinalhaven; Addie Boggs, Waldoboro; Evelyn Butler, Long Cove; Eleanor Donnell, North Sullivan; and Olivia Campbell, Owl's Head.

It was the first graduation to take place from the Bok Home. The assembly room made an ideal setting and the guests who filled it to capacity gave distinction to an occasion of much interest.

The program will include another moving picture "The Diamond Industry," procured by Lion Morse. "The general convention committee, (Ingraham, Lovejoy, Gray, Allen, Stoddard, Gregory, Saville, Annis and Morse) are requested to be in attendance at the Samoset as much as possible. They will be provided with appropriate lodges and there will be opportunities for them to assist throughout the two days.

"The decorating committee (Jones, Leach, Orbeton) will be supplied with bunting sent by the various clubs and during Friday forenoon it will be displayed about the hotel. "The motorcade to Camden and Thomaston late Saturday afternoon will have 100 cars in line. State Police will do escort duty and Saville, Lovejoy and Allen, of the general committee will be in charge. Stoddard and Morse will be provided with "guest cards" to be attached to cars of visiting Lions. Ken is looking after the Boys' Band arrangements and a Camden committee is cooperating and will have their Boys' Band available for Saturday."

Local Club Holds Annual Reunion and Reviews a Good Year

The annual meeting of the Speech Readers Club took place Thursday with the election of officers, reports of the various committees, etc., in order. The new officers are: President, Mrs. Freeman Brown; vice president, Miss Hope Greenhalgh; treasurer, Mrs. Bessie Hewett; recording secretary, Miss Annie Frye; corresponding secretary, Mrs. J. C. Hill. The re-election of Mrs. Brown as president is particularly gratifying as the organization of the club and its ultimate success have been largely due to her inspiration, untiring effort and application to the project. From eight charter members Mrs. Brown has seen the club grow to 26 active members and ten associate members (not hard of hearing but afflicted through interest). Two members, Mrs. Hill and Mrs. Nathan Witham, have had 100 per cent attendance record.

Mrs. Brown stressed the importance of speech-reading as opening up new vistas of enjoyment and intellect, and expressed her gratification that the club had been able in this brief period of time to establish itself in community activities, speaking of the work in the schools and with the Red Cross in audiometer tests, the preliminary training of some hard of hearing school children, etc. Mrs. Brown also paid tribute to the members who have worked so faithfully throughout the season complimenting them upon the success they have attained in the classes with no trained teacher in charge. She expressed appreciation to H. P. Blodgett who has generously donated the use of the club room since January, and to The Courier-Gazette which has cooperated in giving publicity in the columns that has been far reaching in its value, particularly in the early days of the organization when the aims and work were explained at length in the effort to reach all who might be interested. A scrapbook of all newspaper clippings has been faithfully kept by Mrs. Butler; this book will be taken to the Federation convention in New York. All clippings, too, have been sent to Federation headquarters where they are kept as a record. The annual convention takes place in New York June 16-19, and Mrs. Brown is to attend as a delegate.

Refreshments were served under the direction of Miss Frye who was assisted by Mrs. Ayres and Mrs. Hill.

Thursday's meeting was the final one of the season. It is a safe guess that with the noteworthy accomplishments of this year to the credit of the club the 1930-31 season will be one of banner achievement.

Beloved, do you know that it is June. You who have passed beyond me to the stars? Comes to your ear, all mingled with the bars of heavenly music, one sweet blushing tune? Beloved, when the June-time roses blow I want you so, who loved the June with me! I wonder if the gates of Paradise Swing inward only? Yes, it must be so. Else would the blushing's rapturous melody Call you back to me, even from the skies! —B. Y. Williams.

Rockland's New Population Figures

Showing a population increase of slightly more than 11 per cent, Rockland joined the 9000 group of cities with the completion of the 1930 census enumeration.

Here is proof of progress, irrefutable evidence that Rockland has forged ahead faster during the last decade than during any previous 10-year period since 1860.

The 1860 census showed a gain of approximately 2300 over 1850 but since that time Rockland's population increases have been slight until the enumeration just completed.

The Rockland National Bank has more than kept pace with Rockland's population progress. During the 10 years between 1920 and 1930 the resources of this institution have more than doubled.

DWINAL FOR CONGRESS

Scarcely more than one week, and then the primary election is held. The Republican voters, with numerous contests in sight, are beginning to manifest a more decided interest. The outstanding feature of the campaign, so far as Knox County is personally concerned, is the contest for the Congressional nomination—a three-cornered drive which is being conducted quietly, but with no absence of that commodity so well known nowadays under the term "pep." Two of the candidates come from the western end of the district—Frederick P. Bonney of Franklin County, and Donald B. Partridge of Oxford County. The only candidate in the eastern end of the district is State Senator Zelma M. Dwinal of Camden, who has been honored by his town and county with numerous offices and his record shows that their confidence has not been misplaced.

It has been assumed that Senator Dwinal has a comfortable lead in the congressional race, but the other two candidates are making an intensive drive, and too much should not be taken for granted. The Second District is soon to be dismembered, and there is no need to disguise the fact that this will be Knox County's last opportunity for many years to furnish a Congressman. We have in Senator Dwinal an able, clean-cut candidate whose presence in the Republican ticket next September will be an added source of inspiration and strength. In order to have that name on the ticket it behooves every Knox County Republican to use his best efforts for Mr. Dwinal in the primary election one week from Monday.

THE PRIMARIES JUNE 16

In an editorial review of the political situation in Maine preceding the primaries the Press Herald notes a general lack of interest except in a comparatively narrow circle. The great mass of voters, it says, seems to be apathetic concerning the outcome of the voting. Discussing the gubernatorial features, the writer of the article discovers no likelihood of the Republicans departing from the long-established custom of retaining a Governor in office for a second term, as the party is certain to do in the present instance by giving a renomination to Governor Gardner. Turning to the senatorial situation the editor says: "Of the three candidates for the Republican nomination for United States senator two are well known to the voters of Maine and the third one was practically unknown when he announced his candidacy for this office," and he adds:

Congressman Wallace H. White of the Second District has served his State in Washington for thirteen years. He is not only well known in Maine but because of his outstanding ability and hard work, he has achieved an enviable reputation in the Nation and even abroad as a constructive statesman. His experience in Congress makes him the logical candidate for the nomination he seeks. His record as a representative to Congress is an enviable one. He has consistently adhered to the principles of the Republican party, supported its policies and enjoyed the confidence and respect of its leaders. In these thirteen years Congressman White has had opportunity to repeatedly demonstrate his ability to serve the interests of his State and its people. Two Presidents have honored him by selecting him from among all his colleagues in Congress to serve on international commissions where his knowledge of the subjects under consideration has brought him recognition and distinction.

There never has been any suspicion that Congressman White will not always shape his acts in harmony with the principles of the Republican party. He has never been charged with having consorted with the so-called "insurgent" element in the Republican party in Congress; nor does he enjoy the sympathy or the political aid of any of those senators or representatives who have contributed so much to the confusion which has handicapped President Hoover's administration. His political career has not been marked by creating trouble in his party or in the State. He has been content to win the commendation of the people of Maine by faithful attention to his duties and he has not sought applause or self aggrandizement by spectacular posturing. His modesty has not permitted him to force himself into the foreground of every picture. On the contrary he has been content to do his job, whatever it might be, as well as he could and let the credit for doing it come to him unbidden, if it came at all.

Former Governor Ralph O. Brewster, who sought to obtain the Republican nomination for United States senator in 1928 and failed to gain it, is one of Congressman White's opponents. He has been making a campaign ever since he was defeated for the nomination by Senator Hale two years ago.

The third candidate for this important office is Dugal B. Dewar. He is running for this nomination on a "wet" platform, having pledged himself, if nominated and elected, to vote for the repeal of the 18th Amendment. Mr. Dewar is looked

GEN. LORD'S BURIAL

Marked By Military Honors
 At Arlington Cemetery—
 Press Comment

Brigadier General Herbert M. Lord, U. S. A., retired, former director of the Bureau of the Budget, was buried Wednesday morning in Arlington Cemetery.

Military escorts met the cortege at the Fort Myer gate of the cemetery. Services and full military honors were conducted at the grave.

Honorary pallbearers were from the Army and the Bureau of the Budget. Maj. Gen. Roderick D. Carmichael, Maj. Gen. Kenzie W. Walker, retired; Col. Frederick W. Coleman, Col. C. C. Whitcomb, R. C. Kloeber, Charles R. Fullway, F. W. Wight and Fred J. Bailey.

The passing of Gen. Lord, one of the most honored alumni of Colby College, has occasioned a keen sense of loss to his many friends of that institution. Gen. Lord was deeply interested in the Colby development fund campaign last spring and served as general chairman of the national committee on that drive. The erection of the new athletic building at Colby was a matter of great gratification to him and until his recent ill health, he expected to have a part in the dedication exercises to be held June 14.

New York Sun: On Gen. Lord's retirement from the Bureau of the Budget President Hoover paid high compliment to his ability, his intelligence, his knowledge of Government affairs, his devotion to the public interest. The compliment was deserved and that fact was generally recognized. This was Gen. Lord's recompense for the hard work he did as chief conservator of the taxpayers' money. As the Army Director of Finance in the war he bore a heavy burden in performance of the routine of his task, but it was never so heavy that he was unable or unwilling to step aside to assist a perplexed soldier or dependent of a soldier. Gen. Lord was not one of these; he always had the time, the patience, the sympathy to remove a misunderstanding, straighten out a tangle, instruct a bewildered applicant for advice. Circumlocution was alien to him; red tape did not blind him. A clear-thinking man, a witty man, a straight-hitting man, Herbert M. Lord was a useful citizen.

New York Herald Tribune: Gen. Lord was one of those geniuses who are fortunate enough to find the ideal field for their talents. He was born to be a Federal Budget Director, and time and circumstances combined to summon him to that extraordinarily congenial post. Congress established the budget system in 1921. After General Dawes the first Budget Director, retired on July 1, 1922, Gen. Lord's record made his succession inevitable. Under Presidents Harding, Coolidge and Hoover he continued to develop the bureau's power and prestige. Gen. Dawes was a master of publicity. So was Gen. Lord. He also was a tireless worker in the field of retrenchment, never discouraged by inertia or hostility on the part of the bureau and department chiefs, whose appropriations he cut down, and fertile in ideas intended to promote co-operation and to make economy painless and popular. Gen. Lord saved the people of this country hundreds of millions of dollars by first pruning estimates and then pruning appropriations. He was a wonder worker—a wizard whose magic helped greatly to keep the Treasury solvent and prosperous. Few men have ever done so much for the great army of unregarded taxpayers. The nation was fortunate to be able to utilize his talents.

Bangor Commercial: When Gen. Lord entered Colby College half a century ago, he walked the 55 miles from his home to Waterville. And he used the same method of locomotion in returning to home and college at vacation time. It might be observed that Mr. Lord very early adopted the practice of economy that he so sharply stressed when in later years he had the job of overseeing the expenditures of the government. Very possibly the students of the present day economize in transportation by using their own footpower between their homes and college but we imagine that the number is but small. And, unless they are particularly unfortunate they get a lift over the road.

Boston Transcript: The most popular man in the most unpopular job in the Government—this might serve as a quick characterization of Gen. Lord, whose death will be lamented by thousands of citizens who came in contact with this remarkable man. Although essentially a military man, it was the fate or luck of Gen. Lord to be associated chiefly with the fiscal affairs of the Government; while a major, as the financial adviser of the Committee on Ways and Means which brought forth the Payne-Aldrich bill; as chief of finance in the Philippines; and finally in the position established by Charles G. Dawes and made powerful by General Lord. It was due largely to his intelligent and tactful co-operation that Calvin Coolidge was able to conduct an Administration famous for its economy program; and despite the many unpleasant phases of his duties in that capacity, Gen. Lord preserved a serenity of manner and a personal charm which endeared him to all with whom he came in contact, while his ever-hubbling humor made his budget speeches even more attractive than the President's. American citizenship loses one of its finest representatives in the death of Gen. Lord.

Christian Science Monitor: Much of the extraordinary success of Gen. Lord was due to his faculty for dramatizing economy, and making thrift picturesque and interesting.

Ruthless in his demands for the reduction of estimate, he lightened and illuminated all his remarks with a upon by many as a "stalking horse" for Mr. Brewster and his candidacy is supposed to prove helpful to the former governor as it is expected it will take away from Congressman White some of the votes which he might otherwise be likely to obtain.

The most important event of the four years' course—the trip to Washington—is well described by Vada Clukey; and following up this topic Aleada W. Little contributes "An Answer." Also in the literary department are to be found "Higgins from Hickville" by V. L. and "The Crotchenden Tragedy," by Cliff Ladd.

Portraits of all the graduates are shown, accompanied by "personalities." To complete an impressive volume there is an abundant supply of social notes, jokes, athletics, exchange notes, alumni notes and advertising.

James East who has been living in the Farrow house on Masonic street has moved to the Walker Brewster house, Maple street.

Herbert Hall and Lucius York, Maine Central engineers, leave tomorrow for Toronto where they will attend the Shriners' national convention.

The biggest attendance yet is indicated by return cards for Commencement Sunday Monday night. The committee has a new menu and there will be a big time for all.

Clarence L. Flanders who is employed by the Rockland and Rockport Lime Corporation, fell two weeks ago injuring one of his legs. He entered Knox Hospital yesterday.

The boys and girls of the First Baptist Sunday school are asked to be at the church tomorrow morning at 9 o'clock, standard, as the Children's Day concert begins at 9.30 a. m.

Neighbor Hancock is another county which shows a gain in population. It now has 30,506 inhabitants, which is a few hundred more than it had 10 years ago, and only a few thousand more than Knox has. But in 1940 when Rockland has a population of 10,000 things are going to be different.

The commencement exercises of Rockland Commercial College take place Tuesday evening at the Thorne-dike Hotel, with a banquet, informal reception and dancing, with the school orchestra and square dance. It is still possible to secure a few more reservations, but same must be arranged for not later than Monday with Mrs. Lena Sargent.

All members of the Rockland High School Alumni Association are requested to make payment of the annual dues as soon as possible to either Miss Margaret Snow at the Public Library or to Herman Hart at the Rockland National Bank. The importance of this is stressed as the money is needed to carry on the work of the Association.

Maybe you have a porch chair or a settee for which you have no particular use. These could be handed to advantage at the Community Yacht Club, where many elderly people like to congregate on pleasant days to rest or enjoy the always beautiful scene spread out before them. When there are no seats available their pleasure is spoiled in part. Maybe you can help out the situation.

H. N. Brazier, Forrest Brazier, Albert Brazier and Ralph E. Nutt have returned from Spencer Bay, Moosehead Lake, where three days' fishing yielded them a handsome supply of salmon, trout and small game. One day a gale took possession of the big lake and gave such a correct imitation of the Atlantic on a stormy day that the Knox County quartet felt very much at home.

The last scheduled ball game of the season will be played at Community Park next Monday afternoon. Rockland High School's opponent on that occasion will be the famous Lisbon Falls team—famous because last year it was able to take part in a national tournament. Earlier in the season it defeated Rockland 9 to 1. It probably will win again Monday, but fans who wish to see school stars in action should be on deck for this match.

The 4-H club field day comes this year on Saturday, Aug. 30 at the North Knox fair grounds in Union. This is the gale day of the 4-H club year, when members in Knox and Lincoln counties meet for a day of games, stunts and general fun. The girls of the Twin Village Sewing Club of Damariscotta have made a banner which will be presented by the Farm Bureau to the club winning the most points on games for the day. There are over 250 club members in the counties at present who are looking forward to a day of unusual sport.

Capt. Ross Wilson of the steamship "Kentuckian," arrived at his Thomaston home Thursday for a few days' vacation, the first visit home in two years. He is returning today to join his ship, but expects to return in August for a longer vacation.

There breezed into The Courier-Gazette office yesterday a friendly appearing gentleman, who informed the editorial staff that his name was Fred P. Bonney, that he was all the way from Rangely, and that he is seeking the Republican Congressional nomination in the Second District. Mr. Bonney is but little known in this end of the district, but having worked in a newspaper office, and being well acquainted with that journal's insides known as the "type home," it didn't take him long to get acquainted, hereabouts and Rockland folks found him to possess a very friendly and interesting personality.

A pleasing entertainment was presented in the Thomaston High School assembly hall Tuesday evening for the benefit of Pine Cone Troop, Girl Scouts, consisting of playlets, readings, etc., by the dramatic pupils of Miss Adelyn Bushnell. These Rockland pupils participated: In "The Prophecy," Harold and Meredith Dondis, Richard Ellingwood, Gordon Richardson, Robert Crane, Richard Marsh, Sterling Morse, Henry Simmons and Guy Nicholas; in "The Raggedy Girl," Meredith Dondis; in "The King of the Bookcase," Betty McAlary, Ione Louraine, Meredith and Harold Dondis; in readings, Betty McAlary, Ione Louraine, Dorothy Harvey and Harold Dondis.

Parachute jumps and practically free public flights will be in order at the Curtiss Flying Field tomorrow afternoon. Weather permitting the ever thrilling parachute jumps will be made and the usual large crowd will be on hand. The public will be given flights for one cent a pound of their actual weight. This is done of course to still further popularize flying in this intensely air minded community. Every day, and Sunday especially, the airport is the mecca for hundreds of motorists and pedestrians. With the parachute jumps, fancy flying and low rate public trips there is bound to be a great turnout, weather permitting. The public not closely following the development of the field and plant will be amazed at the recent progress made.

Yesterday's Rotary meeting was one of those poverty luncheon affairs, by the exercise of which economy the sum usually paid by members is diverted to some worthy object, in this case the club's pledge of $50 to the Community Chest. This fund, which falls short of the sum aimed at in the campaign of last Tuesday, came in for general discussion, as a result of which the club members are to take an assignment of the pledge cards not yet canvassed and see that they get properly signed up. The speaker of the occasion was Rotarian John M. Richardson, advertising manager of The Courier-Gazette, who dealt with the country newspaper and the city newspaper with respect to the two fields that they cover, and the relatively larger importance of the country paper, as the organ of a constituency which is a greater spender of money than the people who dwell in cities. It is for this reason that the national advertisers are increasingly using the country paper as their medium of publicity. Mr. Richardson's illustrations were supplied out of his connection with The Courier-Gazette, where, he declared, he had been given insight into what he had come to regard as the highest ideals of country journalism. The excellent address was warmly applauded. Visitors present included C. W. Foss of Nashua, N. H., I. R. Cutler, Old Town, C. Earle Ludwick, Rockland; and visiting Rotarians were Charles Wood and P. J. Good of Camden and Copeland Lang of Belfast.

Mrs. Dorothy Tilden Spoerl of Orono, National President of the Y. P. C. U., who was to occupy the Universalist pulpit Sunday morning has been called to Connecticut due to serious illness in her family, so Rev. George H. Welch will speak as usual.

The committee in charge of the annual reception of the R.H.S. Alumni Association, to be held next Friday evening, are bending every effort to make the occasion a banner one, with features that will reach and appeal to every member, young or old. It is planned to make the business meeting brief, just long enough to take care of necessary matters. After that it will be an informal party, with entertaining and novel features for everybody. The pictures of members taken in their graduation gowns are to be projected with Miss Anna Coughlin as master of ceremonies. Members, gather up your graduation pictures, or class pictures, and take them to Miss Snow at the Public Library, as she is in charge of this feature. Beulah Rokes Ames is to give some of her inimitable musical readings, and there will be some other musical numbers. There will be tables for cards, and dancing in the gym, and refreshments, of course. These chairman have been appointed: Decorations, Joseph Emery; dance, Dr. Linwood Rogers; refreshments, Thomas Chisholm; cards, Mrs. Arthur Lawrence; pictures, Miss Margaret Snow.

Just As Much Interested As the Lindbergh-Morrins in a Family Event

Mrs. Dwight W. Morrow has curtailed temporarily her activities in behalf of her husband's candidacy for Republican nomination to the United States Senate, in order that she may remain near her daughter, Mrs. Charles A. Lindbergh. Her decision is assumed to have been reached in anticipation of an interesting event in the Lindbergh family. Morrow headquarters has announced that Mrs. Morrow is making far from the Morrow home in Englewood, N. J., and that it may be necessary for her to be with her daughter Ann for a week or more.

Col. Lindbergh and his wife have been at the Morrow residence for some weeks and the Colonel arranged for hangar space for his airplane at the Newark airport, within easy accessibility of Englewood.

IN THE CHURCHES

SERMONETTE

Sin

Not much is said about sin today, in the pulpit or in conversation. It is not popular. People dismiss sin rather lightly, unless the sin brings disgrace or is serious enough to become a crime. Everyone sins or everybody does it—the usual excuse or explanation offered. It is only when viewed in the cold reasoning of the prosecuting attorney, or under the pitiless eye of the judge, that the seriousness of sin and its deadly and damning effect upon human standing and character is felt.

The church has always realized the blighting effect of even minor sins. In matters of health, it is now generally recognized that children should be taught about proper food values and exercises early, rather than wait and in middle life strive to overcome habits of a lifetime. So parents, teachers, ministers should teach the children in their youth of sin. Many a person in the public eye, or desiring to express himself upon grave questions affecting the welfare of the community, has remained silent because of the handicap sin imposed upon him.

Sin leaves its scars upon all. No one knows why sin and evil exists. Because it is universal, it serves some great purpose and benefits the race by giving mankind a better comprehension of righteousness. Nevertheless, it is common knowledge that sin shrivels and if persisted in, damns the soul. Cora Harris has just assumed the Chair of Evil in a modern college. A wonderful woman, she will give a great account of herself in a position unique and unenviable.

AMBITION

[For The Courier-Gazette]
I'd like a tiny cottage, all covered o'er with the
Of woodbine and ivy whose tendrils intertwine,
With twenty tiny windows with tiny panes of glass,
To reflect all the sunshine of faces as they pass,
With a tiny cottage chimney made of tiny red bricks
To carry off the smoke from tiny burning sticks.

Inside that tiny cottage I'd like some little girls
With bright shining faces and long golden curls,
A dog and a cat just as tiny as the rest
To sleep on the hearth rug, the place they like the best.
A covey arm-chair by the fire's ruddy glow,
A piece of embroidery that I may sit and sew.
Give me what I ask, nothing more, I ween,
My dog and cat and little girls, my 'brodery
a-sheen;
Then I'd be as cozy as ever I could be,
I'd make my cot a charming place with Love for company.

RESTRICTED PARKING

A Canada Newspaper Comments Upon Some "Nuisances" Which Creep In Vigorously waging a campaign to restrict parking, the Toronto, Can. Telegram recently commented editorially upon the problem as follows: "The nuisance created by the parking of automobiles on public thoroughfares has been one of gradual growth. In the early days of the automobile, when the horseless carriages were few and far between; the parking of a car was of little moment. But today a stationary automobile at the curb may easily create a blockade as long as abetted block. . . . This is a nuisance which is greatly aggravated on streets on which there is street car traffic. Though a pedestrian who blocked sidewalk traffic would at once be moved on by a policeman, the motorist may more effectively block the roadway with impunity. It is time that the public generally accepted the fact that the highway is an artery and not a stable. It is intolerable that a single motorist should pre-empt 54 square feet of pavement to the demoralization of traffic, while, perhaps, he is indulging in the luxury of a shave in an adjacent barber shop. Thoughtless selfishness has abused a privilege which it now demands as a right."

reasons why it's wise to choose a
"SIX"
1. It's Smooth! For the new Chevrolet has a 50-horsepower valve-in-head engine with six cylinders! And a Six is, above all things, smooth! In low gear or high—the power flows with a smoothness and silence that are impossible with anything less than six cylinders.
2. It's Comfortable! Four long semi-elliptic springs; four Lovejoy hydraulic shock absorbers; big, roomy Fisher bodies; and Chevrolet's six-cylinder power-flow, with its freedom from annoying vibration—all add to Chevrolet riding comfort.
3. It's Easy to Drive! Chevrolet's improved ball bearing steering mechanism operates without apparent effort. The clutch and four-wheel brakes respond to the slightest pressure. And six-cylinder design means less gear-shifting—easier control.
4. It's Beautiful! Chevrolet is the only car so low in price with the distinction of Body by Fisher. Hence, Chevrolet style compares favorably with that of costly cars. The lines are smart, clean-cut and modern. And no other car in the low-price field offers such luxurious interiors.
5. It's Economical! No other car gives any better gas, oil or tire mileage than the new Chevrolet. Six-cylinder smoothness holds down maintenance costs by protecting the car from destructive vibration. And Chevrolet flat-rate service charges on many operations are the lowest in the industry.
6. It's Easy to Buy! The G. M. A. C. payment plan, with its small down payment and easy terms, is available to every Chevrolet buyer. Come in! Confirm the many reasons why it's wise to choose a Six in the low-price field.

Mrs. H. E. Hardy and Mrs. T. T. Noyes are boarding the men employed in setting the electric light poles.

The two loyal G.A.R. brothers, Albin Allen and Fernando Philbrick, true to custom, provided flags and decorated their comrades graves this year. They were assisted by L. A. Weaver who kindly provided the means of transportation.

Memorial Day brought the usual visitors to the cemetery. Many of the lost the lack of individual care necessary to keep them trim. Work on the State road is progressing under the direction of Halver Hart of South Hope.

E. L. True has returned from a few days' visit in Massachusetts. Farming is going steadily onward, but naturally warmer weather and sunshine would be much appreciated.

TENANT'S HARBOR DAYS

For many years Dad was collector for the Tenant's Harbor Baptist Church. He had his troubles. I presume every church collector has the same trouble, that is, getting the money to pay the minister's salary. Here is an example:

"May 27, 1880. Went out this evening trying to collect money for the minister. Did not get a copper. It is rather uphill work."

It cost money to run a church 50 years ago. So many people believed the words of the hymn—"Salvation's free for you and me, I'm glad salvation's free"—that the collector had a hard time to convince them that food and clothing were not free, and that the minister and his family needed both. Probably in these stirring days of 1930 people think differently about salvation and are willing to pay for it on the deferred payment plan.

ROCKLAND MUST WIN

Victory In Camden Today Would Give Chance To Meet Thomaston In Championship Playoff

Knox County baseball interest centers today upon the game between Rockland High and Camden High which will be played in Camden at 2:30. A victory for Rockland would mean a play-off with Thomaston, for the championship of the Knox and Lincoln League and incidentally a good deal of greenbacks for a treasury that is sadly in need of it. On the other hand Camden has been having an ill-starred season and would like to win today in order to take the curse off "Doug" Walker, the young pitching ace, who has been working over time this season, but who fanned 17 of the Lincoln County lads. Blake the Lincoln right fielder made one of the prettiest one-handed, shoestring catches ever seen on that field. The score:

Thomaston 9, Lincoln 4

Thomaston High School completed its schedule Wednesday, when it had small difficulty in vanquishing Lincoln Academy. The latter's regular catcher was out of the game, and team's morale was visibly affected by his absence. Much credit for the victory is due to "Doug" Walker, the young pitching ace, who has been working over time this season, but who fanned 17 of the Lincoln County lads. Blake the Lincoln right fielder made one of the prettiest one-handed, shoestring catches ever seen on that field. The score:

MORAN IN LEWISTON

Attacks High Cost of State Government In Address To Women

High cost of State Government in Maine was complained of by Edward C. Moran, Jr., Democratic candidate for governor, in a speech in Lewiston municipal court room, Wednesday night. He said there was no reason why Maine required more officials than did the States of New York, Illinois and Alabama combined, declared for consolidation of State office, condemned the State Highway Commission and found that the present State administration had been the most extravagant of any in Maine's history.

The meeting at which Mr. Moran spoke was held under the direction of the Lewiston Woman's Democratic Club, but an invitation had been extended to all interested to attend. About 30 were present.

Previous to the meeting Mr. and Mrs. Moran and Mr. and Mrs. Frank A. Morrey of Lewiston were dinner guests of Mrs. Ruth Coffin, Wood street—Lewiston Journal.

There's beauty in a leafy tree
When sunshine's gold peers through the green,
Or in a shy anemone,
Dew-kissed at morn and pearly clean.
There's beauty in an April rain
When winter days have scurried by,

THAT FARMERETTE A Real Personage Who Works Hard and Just Now Needs a Helping Hand

Editor of The Courier-Gazette:—
I read with much interest Luke Brewster's account of meeting the "farmerette" on the mountain farm. Although he did not give her name, it was no mystery to me, as she lives on the farm adjoining mine. Yesterday I saw her and for the first time I remember, she was crying. She had met with a great misfortune. Saturday afternoon, her best team horse valued at $150 dropped dead at her feet after a brisk run in the fields. And she had owned this horse only three months.

This girl, only 22 years old lives alone on a mountain farm, the nearest house one-half mile or more by road, and she certainly is working much beyond her strength. She milks four cows twice daily, tends a large flock of hens, shears her own sheep, rides a moving machine in haying time, also horse rake. Last summer she was thrown from the rake and has never fully recovered from the injury received. This spring she has earned about $30 plowing and harrowing garden spots for neighbors. She has a lot of work done on her own farm and was planning to do much more. Now she is at a stand still and perhaps a little discouraged.

She is a poor girl, born with the love of horses and domestic animals. Her horses and stock are always well fed and attractive in appearance. She is a member of Mt. Pleasant Grange of West Rockport but her home work does not permit her to attend often.

Her friends will help her to some extent. Perhaps others knowing the circumstances might be concentrated effort aid her also. She needs another horse. Less than the price of one-half gallon of gasoline, ten cents "a thin dime" from each of a fraction of the readers of The Courier-Gazette would help her. Can it be done? It is a worthy cause. Why not?

Her name is Olivia C. Russell, her address, Thomaston, Maine, R.F.D. 1. The mail box is hung on a post one-half mile from her home. She has long rough road, through the woods, to travel to reach it. Generally her travel is in rain except the day her farm paper comes. May she have a beautiful mail for a few days at least is the wish of her friends.

The Farmerette story evidently has made a wide appeal. Another correspondent writes:
Editor of The Courier-Gazette:—
It was quite easy for those of us who know and love her, to recognize the heroine of your little farmerette story of a few weeks ago.

I can't help writing another chapter to the story which may destroy a little of the glamour but will give a glimpse of the stern reality of being a farmerette.

The girl in my chapter had two beautiful things in her life—the view from the mountain and her beautiful horse, "Paint." She bought "Paint" last spring and was so happy to own him, for she had loved him always and wanted him. "Paint" was a gentleman and I too loved every inch of him, and he was big of him, as well as of heart.

I don't know just what happened up on the mountain last Saturday, but this much I have learned—that while the girl was in her yard—perhaps looking at the wonderful view—"Paint" galloped around the house and up to his beloved mistress and dropped dead at her feet.

This week we do men's work but the tears we shed over our faithful dumb friends are very womanly, believe me. It is safe to say that the girl isn't thinking of the view this morning but of a big mound up on the hillside where "Paint" is lying. You see she had to drag him away in spite of tears and heartache because when one is a farmerette, there is no one else to do it.

FROM EGG ROCK

New Lightkeeper At Owl's Head Had Very Fine Record There

Keeper Augustus Hamor who was recently transferred to Egg Rock Light, had been stationed there 17 years, and his work was the complete satisfaction of the lighthouse department. A Bar Harbor correspondent writes:

"Keeper Hamor has had many interesting experiences on Egg Rock Light. The place has been a center of interest for many people as Egg Rock is unique in many respects. Its flaming red light for one thing, while it is an island light, on what is merely a tiny rock islet in Frenchman's Bay, sometimes almost completely submerged except at the very height where the house stands by the storm-lashed seas. Keeper Hamor has seen 17 years of unusual change, too, and of many things to make the light keeper's life a little more in touch with communities ashore. He built his own radio the first on the Rock and the Rock has had telephone connection. Then too, Keeper Hamor and his family are the first on the Rock to hear the hum of the airplane. They have rendered assistance to many a storm driven mariner, from a yachtsman unheeding or unknowing the signs of storm to the crew of this or that sailing craft come to grief despite the warning of bell or whistle or flashing crimson beacon.

"Keeper Hamor and his family have, according to the records, many interesting memories of war days and of all that went to make those days interesting and exciting, the passing of ships of war bound into Bar Harbor's port. Egg Rock has been a delightful center of hospitality too for the family's friends and no more delightful day could be spent by those who love the sea and its silences than to spend a day at Egg Rock Light. And from a host of friends best wishes go with the Hamors on their departure for their new home near Rockland."

KNOWS WHEREOF SHE SPEAKS The Modern Woman Faces Life's Problems With Courage and Intelligence—Her Influence Steadily Develops

What a privilege to be a Woman of Today! How wide has grown her horizon! No longer is her life circumscribed by four walls. The modern woman is truly a Citizen of the World, intelligently participating in its affairs. Man, who was once prone to be alarmed over the imagined dire consequences if woman were given "free rein" has had occasion to change his views, for she has cooperated with him to make this a better world to live in.

Her influence is sought individually and collectively in politics, in commerce and in the arts. Her good will is of major importance in the distribution of the world's commodities. She is "up on things." She is eager to try what is new, not for the mere novelty of it, but to avail herself and her family of the best. She is openminded to innovations, and if the market offers her something that is superior to what she has, she is willing to be shown. By an intelligent process of eliminating the inferior and substituting the superior, her home is constantly becoming more attractive and efficient. In always demanding the best, she stimulates competition, which is "the life of trade." A merchant knows that if he can prove to her that his article is better for the same or less money, no false sentiment is going to make her cling to the old. Therefore, merchants are kept alert, each striving to give millady better values, which has had a great deal to do with our present high standard of living. Her discriminating taste must be pleased. She sees to it that her home is pleasant, and that the meals she serves to her family and guests are rightly balanced and appetizingly prepared.

She studies child welfare, and through Parent-Teacher associations cooperates with the schools in developing the children into finer citizens-to-be. Through club and church work she contributes her share to the betterment of the community she lives in.

She has not only kept step with progress, she has often been in the very vanguard, breaking new trails, doing "impossible" things because she didn't know they couldn't be done. You will find her holding her own in the professions—you will find her exploring jungles and the uncharted northlands, you will find her in the laboratories of science, or winning her wings in aviation—in fact, she has invaded practically every field of activity from which she was once excluded, and is distinguishing herself in these various fields. No longer is her place exclusively "in the home," and yet her very emancipation has made her a better home maker. She has learned scientific methods with which to banish drudgery, ill health and inharmonious, which were the results of her once abysmal ignorance.

She is interested in everything—through the radio, the library, the periodicals that come to her house, the clubs she belongs to, the shows she attends, the advertisements she reads, the shop window displays she studies for new ideas, she is kept constantly informed of what the world is doing.

She hates war, but in her country's crisis she gave of her time, her talent, her money and her sons. And now she is turning her energies into reconstructive and constructive channels. It is her hope that the world will see no more war—that men and women and nations will march together in the great Army of Progress. That harmony will reign over the earth, and she is doing her part, which is no small one. In the humblest cottage you will find her trying to instill the ideals of health and beauty and cleanliness into the lives of her children that they may grow up with a normal happy outlook on life. Woman is a great leader in both home and community progress and development.

GOD'S GIFT TO MAN
(For The Courier-Gazette)
As I stand at my kitchen window
And gaze away to the east
I find a world full of glory—
For my eyes a veritable feast.

The shades of green there are many—
From the trees of hard wood and soft,
An occasional tinge of the red shows;
My eyes see this picture so soft.

Right in the midst of this glory
A lake! His handwork, too,
And on this beautiful morning
It lies clear, shining and blue.

God's gift to man, this lake is,
A plaything out of the blue,
Happy hours one spends there fishing,
"Turner's Mill Pond," they'll call it to you.

Then come the cold blasts of winter;
The bright hues of summertime fade,
To the browns and white of the Snow King.
The ice shows its color in jade.

Skating then is the pastime,
On this lake that God has made,
Can you see this picture I painted
Of Beauty and Joy on parade?
